The OpenWin application was designed to be an enhanced version of the Windows 'Close Program' applet (Ctrl-Alt-Del). It displays information on all currently open windows on your machine. The Window's handle, title caption, and window class are shown for both visible and hidden windows. Information displayed may be saved to disk, and any window may be restored, or closed down. I want the Icon of applications from my Desktop onto the bar(lets call it a Launcher), Like this. The Applications must be runnable in the application itself, It must also show the time when the application was started. There will be a column for the name of the application, the application icon, the time it

---

was started (if any) and if it is a tray icon then there will be an icon on the tray. Can you help me how I can do it? My OS is Windows Vista. Thanks.

nacobbo Drag the icon onto the desktop 08-30-2006, 12:50 PM mike.d from that link the

---

best you can do is make an .ico file from the dlls that will allow you to see the window and title. 08-30-2006, 12:53 PM minhty you cant set the icon on the bar. but you can drag the icon of the application onto the desktop and see the Window and title caption. 08-30-2006, 12:55

PM nacobbo I think he means an icon that is to be seen.

08-30-2006, 01:03 PM mike.d by icon for that bar i ment, it shouldnt have any visible icon (like on windows bar) it should be "emulating" a icon as being visible. so you cant.

08-30-2006, 01:06 PM nacobbo You can do something with a shell extension and create an icon in Explorer. 08-30-2006, 01:22 PM mike.d what about installing a keyboard shortcut to "open in explorer" then go to the icon you like?

What's New In?

The OpenWin application was designed to be an enhanced version of the Windows 'Close Program' applet (Ctrl-Alt-Del).

It displays information on all currently open windows on your machine. The Window's handle, title caption, and window class are shown for both visible and hidden windows. Information displayed may be saved to disk, and any window may be restored, or closed down.

Displaying of the title caption is different from the applet: the `OpenWin` application treats the title caption as a property of the window, whereas the applet only displays the caption when the window is a child window of a parent window. Features: The OpenWin application displays window information for all currently open windows on the screen, regardless of whether they are visible on-screen. It shows a window's title caption as a property of the window. The applet does not display the title caption. It displays the window class of the window as a property of the window. The applet only displays the class name of the parent window. It displays the handle of the window, which is a property of the window, and the window of the window, which is a property of the window of the window. (The OpenWin application also shows the window of the window of the window of the window; this feature is not shown by the applet.) If the window's parent window is the active window, the OpenWin application displays the parent window class, which is a property of the active window, as the window class. The applet does not display the class of the active window. It may be used to determine if a window is currently hidden. The OpenWin application and the applet are not able to determine if a window is hidden. The OpenWin application may be run directly from the Command Prompt in DOS mode. The OpenWin application cannot be run as a Windows application.

---

---

resurgence to the city's music scene. From its opening until the very end of its scheduled run, the Masquerade was a legitimate option for those looking for a new venue. Since 2012, Birmingham has seen two music festivals (Love, Tomorrow and the return of Electric Forest) and a rise in hip hop and R&B concerts, all of which are very appealing to the masses.
