What's new in Cave Explorers:

fall Perimeter 2: New Earthfall is a standalone sequel to Punisher MAX, the eighth and final storyline of Marvel Comics' Punisher comic. It was written by Matt Fraction (artist of Vol. 1) and drawn by Russell Dauterman. It was first published in November 2008. Plot We learn of Frank Castle's gradual recovery from a stroke and subsequent imprisonment in a secret prison, but a deeper investigation reveals a number of non-superhuman plots by a host of unscrupulous villains. Major spoilers for the story follow. The book opens with the defeat of

Basil Karlo, a drug lord who kept his major operations over the border in Bolivia, and who used his heroin ring to smuggle in arms to Mexico. The "Colonel," Basil's backer, shows up in the story and reveals himself to be a member of a former military organization the "Immortals." They crush the drug trade and are the major organized crime syndicate in the book. They also staged the attack on Castle using a disgruntled former employee to lure Castle to Bolivia, where he catches him and whips him soundly. Castle then falls back into a prison/hospice hospital and, upon hearing of the "Colonel's" death, undergoes treatment with Hunter Wynand. The drug lord, Eduardo Villareal, steps forward and attempts to blackmail and get Castle to join his own drug cartel. Upon realizing he is outmatched, Villareal plots to entrap his enemies among the Yakuza, arranged for wannabe mobster Bruce Campbell, Archer, New York arch-nemesis Venero (formerly Tinyfingers before the events of Annihilation: Conquest), Vin DeGutten and General Von Steuben to interrogate the Karlo-resistant gang members. After a long fight, Campbell and Venero kill each other, but the rest of the group are captured and imprisoned. Venero is beaten, nearly to death, when he fails to unearth the location of the drug trade's headquarters. As he recovers, he is confronted by Flintlock and the omnibus "Baron" Stark. They record the standoff, giving the remaining villains an opportunity to cooperate with the Punisher. They located Karlo's base for the Yakuza, the hands of an unwilling and tortured woman (Longshot's former girlfriend, Laura) behind a bar-b-que grill. Just as the Punisher is about to kill them, she begs

Novel mutations of TTP gene: a rare cause of hypertension. A wide variety of hypertension has been reported in association with mutations in the transcriptional and translation-regulating factor, tumor necrosis factor alpha-induced protein 3 (TNFalpha-induced protein 3; TIP3), which codes a cytoplasmic protein (14 kD), which has an RNA binding motif, and is considered to regulate the stability of RNAs in the cytoplasm. We screened a group of 93 hypertensive and normotensive patients to study the relationship between TIP3 gene mutations and hypertension. We found two rare heterozygous mutations of the TIP3 gene in two unrelated hypertensive patients, one of them related to a family history of hypertension. The mutation (G-->A) causing a Val6Met substitution was present at the first coding nucleotide of codon 30, and the mutation (G-->A) causing a Leu16Ile substitution was present at the first nucleotide of codon 46. This study demonstrates that rare
