Furnace: All Models.Q: AJAX Call, receiving error callback function I am receiving callbacks from an AJAX call and trying to handle the return and error conditions. The correct number of callbacks is being returned, but I am not handling the error callback, or throwing an error message. If I don't do an error callback, the ajax() function doesn't fail, it just just doesn't return the needed success function. I'm not sure what I am doing wrong here... Thanks! function ajax(url, successCallback, errorCallback) { $.ajax({ url: url, type: 'post', success: successCallback, error: function() { errorCallback; } }); return false; } function updateRow(data){ var jsonData = JSON.parse(data); if (!jsonData) { return; } jsonData.defaultName = data.name; jsonData.defaultPhone = data.phone; jsonData.defaultAddress = data.address; var new_jsonData = JSON.stringify(jsonData); $.ajax({ url: '../..../plugins/custom/custom.php', type: 'post', data: new_jsonData, success: function() {
