He then directs police to follow him and asks that they NOT shoot him. But given that the car was parked on the sidewalk and the situation had escalated to that point, they did NOT listen. The video was posted by Larry Hughes, son of Denton Police Chief K Tyler Hughes, from whom he was protecting his niece, who was in the back seat and visibly distressed during the incident. He says he has also reported the incident to the Denton PD. "I just wanted to inform you, the family and everyone else involved that Tyler Hughes is OK, and it turns out he was mistaken for a threat to the officers," Larry wrote. "After entering his vehicle a few times, they saw a shell casing in the backseat. They thought he may have been involved in a drive-by shooting." He adds: "He was pointing at the gun because he was afraid he was going to be shot." Local news station KTVT has obtained the dashboard camera video and is working to get it released. Christopher Bell from Fort Worth, Texas was sentenced to life in prison for the December 2009 shooting death of a 19-year-old man, Tyranee "Ty" Williams, outside a Fort Worth club. Williams was leaving the club when he was shot twice in the face by Bell, who was carrying a 9mm handgun. He was arrested three days later. Bell's video describes him as a rapper and singer who is no stranger to trouble. In the video, he says: "I got problems, I rap about it." In an interview with police, he says he was with his friends and started asking her if she was drinking. He says the girl, who is African-American, appeared to become nervous, though, and she said that she needed to go home. She asks him to drive her there and tells him he should go in the back to sleep. Bell says he did and that he fell asleep. There is some speculation that Bell wanted to take the girl to a drug dealer who he claims offers protection. Video surveillance from the club shows Bell driving the girl in the club's SUV. She is not seen getting out of the vehicle, though an unidentified man is

I am developping an application and I would like to know if, when user type a key on the keyboard, that key press was done via the keyboard or if it was done by the user on the soft keyboard. Are there some information that is passed through the key-press which can be used to check if it was done by the user or by the keyboard? Thanks, A: No. On a regular keyboard, pressing a key does exactly one thing: sends a key press event to the operating system. The operating system then delivers the event to the app that owns that window. This is typically how one app can listen for key events. If you want to distinguish between using a keyboard and a touchscreen, then you have to compare the location of the touch to the location of the key on the virtual keyboard. If you are looking to find out if the key was pressed on the physical keyboard or the soft keyboard, then the only way to do that would be to read the state of the key on 1cdb36666d my 9700 smartphone suddenly shut off without warning. this happened two weeks ago and as it was leaving my home wifi router, i tried to connect to the network again but it wouldn't go back on and nothing would turn on. i tried to turn it on by holding the power button down for a few seconds but it wouldn't come back. i checked the battery and it was fully charged. I tried power cycling it but to no avail. It wasn't connected to the internet or any other network, nor was any other device, like my toaster, hot plate, and my laptop. It just turns off and stays off and won't turn on. i tried to remove the battery and then put it back in. it didn't work and it still would not turn back on. i made sure it charged all the way and it still does not turn on. what can i do to get my smartphone back on? I have a samsung galaxy s5, blackberry 9530, and an Iphone 6. I have tried so many solutions on this. I even tried to root the phone. Everything that I have tried has had no effect on my phone. The light on the front is not lit up and I'm sick of having my phone shut off. I even unplugged it and then replugged it. Nothing works. The phone has had problems with this before so I know that it's not the problem, but I'm out of ideas. Please help. This can happen if the device battery is dead or, if the device has been jailbroken. . Sorry to hear about your situation but often these problems are related to software and firmware issues. Please contact your phone service provider and ask if they can reset your phone remotely, if they can this would be a good solution and if not then please contact Blackberry direct or search online for a possible fix. . . Please provide more information including screenshots if you still have access to your Blackberry device and your service provider can remotely reinstall the Blackberry Desktop Software. If not, you will need to either restore the factory settings or replace the phone. . I have done a quick search and I am unable to find the Blackberry Desktop Software unfortunately if you do find a solution then please post it. . I have not had issues like that myself but I was able to get an Android phone to work. .
