s Looking for FSX Steam Edition addon flybys? This section contains a list of add-ons having to do with US airports. Click the add-on links below to be taken directly to the airport reviews. US airports add-on link list and descriptions IPU Purpose: IPU addon allows the user to navigate the Spruce Lake airport. Predominately this is used to view the airport from the northeast side of the runways. This add-on acts as a cheat sheet to the nearest intersection of runways and taxiways. Usage: On supported Computer, hold down'shift' and while looking at the menu: Press and hold the F7 key and enter '" as your target. The 'IPU' will appear on your HUD as a shortcut. When at the desired location press 'tab' to accept the location and then navigate to the runway you desire. After landing press 'tab' and the menu will display your position on the airport. This adds a level of navigation to the airfield. Toposim Warbird/Panther This Addon intends to take the user to a real airport in a near enough location. This means the airport will be withing a reasonable driving distance from the actual airfield. The standard terrain and runway information will be included for players to use. This Addon allows the user to set elevation options. You may use any number you wish for braking, although more may cause the default landing gear of the user aircraft to be taller and narrower than in near flat land. Warbird/Panther has different options for set up. You can make the add-on surface/elevation completely unrestricted. Or you can limit the above behavior to an area using the limits, and ignoring the shelter/proximity area. Both work equally well for Warbird and Panther altitudes. Usage: On supported Computer, go to any airport listed here: Preferably the closest of 2 or more listed airports, as at least this will allow for far better mapping, if not even a near miss. Any flight simulation program that includes FSDAPS can use the add-on, such as FSX/P3D. Other Major US airports ATRUS Airport Simulator: AirTran Airways – Atlanta, GA Abbre
