Those five teams? San Francisco, Seattle, New Orleans, Green Bay and the St. Louis Rams. A year later the top five teams were New Orleans, New England, Green Bay, San Francisco and Chicago. The 49ers are on the board again. And unlike in 2005, this debate will be for the No. 1 spot as opposed to where the 49ers finish in the AFC West. There are a number of reasons for that: •1. San Francisco is the only team from the AFC West to be represented on this list. •2. The 49ers are competing for the top spot in a weak NFC. Perhaps not coincidentally, the 49ers have won their division the last two seasons. •3. The Seahawks have been nothing short of dominant in their last eight games, winning their last three by an average of 17.1 points. But San
