DPA,

one of Germany's largest news organizations, said it has seen the document, known in the Turkish language as a rap, in which a member of the Turkish police makes a confession. In the document, he states that he killed the man in Turkey in August 2017. The German intelligence agent's name, Werner Foerster, has not been released. He was reported missing last week. Investigators say they believe Foerster was tortured and killed.

The 45-year-old manager of the Turkish Consulate General in Munich was found with multiple stab wounds and gunshot wounds in the back. He was later pronounced dead at a hospital in Germany.Story highlights Retired and active-duty Coast Guard officials say admirals have far more authority now
